

The Underhill is bustling and frenetic in all of its movements and there is never a dull moment. The grand hall/ballroom/throne room where the revels take place is directly under the throne room of the palace above. The revels are nearly nonstop, artists and dancers are well respected in the underhill, as they set the tone for dances that turn violent at a moment's notice. Blood of all colors seeps easily into the packed earth floors.

1. Underhill

2.

- a. Like the palace in versaille
 - b. Lots of weird magic elf shit
3. Environment
4. Overarching concepts
- a. Whimsy above all else
 - b. Strict belief in hirearchy
 - c. Commerce is more or less none existant however the fey love the game of haggling, they like to acquire things not money, and secrets or favors are valued above all else

- d. Political squabbles are for the game of it more than the inherent power
 - e. Violence is commonplace and not forbidden, yet it is not without consequence
 - f. The lack of time nor the passage of time
5. Courts
- a. High queen mab
 - i.
 - ii. All the other courts
 - 1. Subjects
 - a. Court magician: fey dragon
 - b. Seelie
 - i. Vibes: beauty, serenity, play, sharpness
 - ii. Occupy surface world
 - iii. Seasons change as you walk through the area and areas rarely stay the same when you return
 - 1. Beautiful gardens, pavilions
 - 2. Groves
 - iv. Systems
 - 1. Weather
 - 2. Travel
 - v.
 - c. Unseelie
 - i. Vibes: Dance, Sex, opulence.
 - ii. Occupy the revel: System of chambers connected to the roots of an enormous tree at the center of the city
 - 1. Cool dirt and patches of grass line the floors of the
 - iii. Systems
 - 1. Getting water
 - 2. Travel: a great deal of stake is placed in wandering,
 - a. Tree roots act as the roads and tributaries
 - 3. Agriculture
 - iv. Places
 - 1. Dance halls
 - 2. Residences
 - 3. Burial chambers given to the tree
 - 4.

f.